

Streets for People project

Community drop-in

11 May 2024, 10am – 12noon
Kawai Street (outside Roundhay Village)

The Streets for People project that is currently being trialled in your area focuses on making it safer and easier for people to use active modes of transport. It also aims to improve the liveability of streets for residents.

Some of the benefits include:

- A reduction in vehicle speeds
- A reduction in the volume of cars using these streets
- Cleaner air from reduced transport emissions
- A safer network for people using active modes of travel - walking, cycling etc
- A more 'people focused' neighbourhood

Now that the construction phase of the trial is complete, we'd like to hear your views as a resident.

On 11 May 2024 between 10am and 12 noon we will be setting up a street meeting on Kawai Street (outside Roundhay Village). We will have our team of engineers and designers ready to answer any questions you have about the project and to gather your feedback.

We'd like to hear what you think we got right, and also hear if you think some of the trial changes need to be modified.

As a thank you for your time we'll have a coffee cart on site to hand out warm drinks - so please come on down for a chat and a drink, it would be great to see you and hear your thoughts.

If you're unable to meet us on 11 May then we have created an online feedback page shape.nelson.govt.nz/streets-people where you can read more about the project and let us know your thoughts. You can also request that we contact you at a time that suits you for a chat.
